Coat of Arms

Arms: Gules, five lozenges conjoined in fesse argent, each charged with a fleur-de-lis sable, in chief three martlets or.

Crest: An elephant's head erased proper.

Motto: Fidelis et gratus.
Faithful and grateful.

The colour gules (red) participates of the colour of fire and denotes martial prowess, boldness, and hardiness. The ancients used this colour to make them seem terrible to their enemies and to stir up magnanimity.

The lozenge, like all other square figures, represents honesty and constancy, and it was also held to be a token of noble birth.

The colour argent (silver) signifies the messenger of Peace and reliever of the distressed. It also signifies everlasting Charity and Clear Conscience.

Daubin (d'Aubigné) Coat of Arms from "Armorial General" by J. B. Riestap, Vol. 1 (1884) as certified by International Heraldic Institute, Ltd., Charlotte, North Carolina.

FOREWORD

To all my Relatives, Greetings:

Knowledge of ancestors may be an incentive to right living and noble deeds.

This Daubin Family Genealogical History gives pedigree information and names and locates descendants of Moore M. Daubin (my grandfather). It presents a genealogical survey of his European and American ancestors from 1160 A. D. It traces the first visit to America before 1620, the immigration before 1664 and the final immigration to America in 1715-1720 of our ancestors, the d'Aubigné family of France. Then it establishes the migration of Moore M. Daubin from Virginia to Tennessee, to the Southwest, to Mexico, to Arkansas, to Texas, back to Arkansas, his own and his family's life through the Civil War, then to Missouri, and finally in 1865 to Kansas; here he established his final home and lived there with his family for 33 years.

The genealogical charts of all the descendants of Moore M. Daubin contain blank pages on which may be added, as desired, further individual family information including births, marriages and deaths of descendants of Moore M. Daubin.

This genealogy is confined to the consanguinity of the Daubin families in America and to our French ancestors bearing the surname of d'Aubigné.

The mothers and wives of our ancestors, both immediate and remote, have added substantially to our character and to our progress in America.

I desire to pay tribute to my own mother, Ella Nettie Bowen, of New York, daughter of Stephen Allan Bowen and Caroline M. Torrey, who was a daughter of William Torrey. The history of the Bowen family is compiled in the "Bowen Memorial." Both the Bowen and Torrey families were prominent in the Colonial settlement of New York and New England, and descendants of these settlers served the Colonies in the Revolution.

My mother was orphaned at the age of fourteen upon the death of her father; her mother having died when she was eight. She was a brilliant scholar and at the early age of four was a good reader; her father would often 'show her off' by having her read the Bible upside down. She taught at public schools in New York at the age of fifteen. She went West in 1872 and joined her brother, Willie, at Kansas City, Missouri, and there at the age of sixteen taught at an Indian school in Quindara, now Kansas City, Kansas, and in 1873 she taught at the Hart School north of Fort Scott, Kansas. In Fort Scott she met and was married to Crittenden Clay Daubin December 21, 1873, two days before her eighteenth birthday; she bore twelve children and died at the age of sixty-four.

I relate the experiences of my mother as an example of what is often referred to as "American Pioneer Motherhood." Her life is paralleled by a host of those women who joined with all of our paternal ancestors in the development of America.

The actual scope of my genealogical investigation may be of interest.

My research for authentication of our European ancestors, the facts concerning their immigration to America, and finally the actual linking with our own immediate Daubin ancestors has of necessity covered a wide field.

I have secured information from and/or conducted investigation at, amongst others, the following:

United States War Department
United States Department of Interior, Lands Office
United States Census Bureau
Missouri Historical Society
Kansas Historical Society
Arkansas Historical Society
Virginia Historical Society
Library of Congress, Washington, D. C.
D. A. R. Genealogical Library, Washington, D. C.
Genealogical Research Societies

Records of the descendants of Moore M. Daubin, consisting of entries in family Bibles, old letters and other documents have been secured and family traditions have also been collected.

Family traditions and pedigree are "hearsay" in the last analysis, however they are the background for all compilations of a genealogical nature.

Pedigree in the law of evidence is a recognized exception to the "hearsay rule." What is your name? Where were you born? Who were your parents?--Your answer is "hearsay" for it has been related to you from your earliest memory--yet your answers will be admitted as evidence and will be conclusive unless successfully rebutted.

Moore M. Daubin informed his children that he was a descendant of that French Huguenot leader, Theodore Agrippa d'Aubigné; therefore we accept this as a fact.

Moore M. Daubin secured this information in all probability from family pedigree as related to him by his own father and grandfather.

Authentic documents corroborate that Moore M. Daubin was born January 26, 1824, in Bedford County, Virginia, in the midst of the Huguenot Colony, which had been established there by the descendants of Theodore Agrippa d'Aubigné and others who had fled France after the Revocation of the Edict of Nantes in 1685.

Our surname "Daubin" is an anglicization of our difficult to pronounce French name, "d'Aubigné."

I am grateful for the assistance given by living descendants and relatives by marriage of descendants of Moore M. Daubin. I have been furnished with many items of family tradition, documents, and photographs.

It is my hope that the present volume will stimulate sufficient interest to produce more information concerning the later generations, as well as, the early history of the Daubin family in Europe and America. Advance apologies are made for any errors or omissions.

I solicit communications from any Daubin descendant who has substantial information concerning our family. A supplement to this volume may be published at a future time with additions and corrections.

Copies of this book have been deposited in the Genealogical Division of the Library of the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Library of Congress, both in Washington, D. C., the Library of the Virginia Historical Society and Virginia State Library, both in Richmond, Virginia, Missouri State Library, Jefferson City, Missouri, Kansas State Library, Topeka, Kansas, and the Arkansas State Library, Little Rock, Arkansas.

The Daubin Family Genealogical History and Descendants of Moore M. Daubin has been in process of compilation since 1936.

The Genealogical data of the descendants of Moore M. Daubin in Part IV is in fact a valuable vital statistical record of dates and places of marriages, names of the husbands and wives, dates and places of births, dates and places of deaths and indication if living of all known descendants of Moore M. Daubin. It covers a period of 127 years since the birth of Moore M. Daubin in 1824.

These names, dates and places as recorded in Part IV have been secured from a variety of original sources, consisting of Family Bibles, Federal Census, certificates of birth and other official sources and in all instances of living descendants has been verified prior to publication by submission to the descendants or their father or mother if living.

Additional copies of this book are available.

THE DAUBIN FAMILY
GENEALOGICAL HISTORY AND
DESCENDANTS OF

MOORE M. DAUBIN
(1824-1898)

- I -

The Genesis of the Name Daubin

The family name Daubin (Dau-bin') as we have all experienced, is often misspelled and mispronounced. At times our name is pronounced or spelled with an "s" suffix and as "Dobbins."

In searching through available records for our family history, there is found in France, as used by an ancestor in about 1160 A. D., the name d'Aubigné. This is considered as a true French spelling of our name.

It is recorded in many compilations of a genealogical nature in France, England and the United States of America; sometimes as:

D'aubin, d'Adde, Dadou, Dabb,
Debaney, DeBany, DeBony,
deBonis, Dauvenay, Daubeney,
Daubeney, Dabnee, Dobins,
Dobbyns, Dabgne, Dabyms,
Daubings and Dabney,
also of course, d'Aubigné
and Daubin

The difficulties encountered in research is due to inconsistencies in official records and errors in the spellings of names by official recorders. To illustrate, reference is made to the Federal Census records of Bedford County, Virginia, where is found successive listings of the same person as head of a family:

Year 1810 - Abner Daubings	} This is, without any doubt, a brother or uncle of Moore M. Daubin
Year 1820 - Abner Dobyns
Year 1830 - Abner Dobbins
Year 1840 - Abner Dobyns
Year 1850 - Abner Dobins

This Abner's Last Will and Testament, dated July 10, 1849, and recorded in Will Book 17 at page 138 in 1858 in the Office of County Clerk of Bedford County, Virginia, lists his name as Abner Dobyns, nevertheless, the Federal Census records have his name as Abner Daubings as early as 1810.

Thus we have several spellings of the surname of the same person; of course, that does not mean that Abner changed his name every ten years; it is obvious that successive census enumerators spelled the name as each understood it as pronounced.

The Federal Census of 1810 for Bedford County, Virginia, in addition to Abner Daubings, also lists four other heads of families, as:

Joseph Daubings
Josiah Daubings
Griffin Daubings, Sr.
Griffin Daubings, Jr.

Finally, we have the following recorded information concerning my grandfather, Moore M. Daubin, again from the Federal Census: (spelling as it actually appears in official records)

"Federal Census - 1870 taken June 22nd
Kansas - Bourbon County - Scott Township

An error was made in the Federal Census in listing the ages of grandfather and grandmother. Their correct ages in 1870 were grandfather, 46, and grandmother, 37.

The first part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the problem of the existence of solutions of the system of equations (1) for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β . It is shown that the system has solutions for all values of the parameters α and β if the function $f(x)$ is continuous and has a bounded derivative.

In the second part of the paper the problem of the existence of solutions of the system of equations (1) for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β is solved. It is shown that the system has solutions for all values of the parameters α and β if the function $f(x)$ is continuous and has a bounded derivative.

The third part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the problem of the existence of solutions of the system of equations (1) for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β . It is shown that the system has solutions for all values of the parameters α and β if the function $f(x)$ is continuous and has a bounded derivative.

The fourth part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the problem of the existence of solutions of the system of equations (1) for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β . It is shown that the system has solutions for all values of the parameters α and β if the function $f(x)$ is continuous and has a bounded derivative.

The fifth part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the problem of the existence of solutions of the system of equations (1) for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β . It is shown that the system has solutions for all values of the parameters α and β if the function $f(x)$ is continuous and has a bounded derivative.

The sixth part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the problem of the existence of solutions of the system of equations (1) for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β . It is shown that the system has solutions for all values of the parameters α and β if the function $f(x)$ is continuous and has a bounded derivative.

The seventh part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the problem of the existence of solutions of the system of equations (1) for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β . It is shown that the system has solutions for all values of the parameters α and β if the function $f(x)$ is continuous and has a bounded derivative.

The name was listed as Dobbins by the enumerator who spelled the name as he thought it was locally pronounced. We know that Moore M. used only Daubin as his surname.

"Daubin" represents a much closer anglicization of the French name of d'Aubigné than either Dabney or even Daubings. It is possible that Moore M. Daubin was the first to adopt the present spelling of our family name.

Moore M. informed his children that he was a direct descendant of the immigrant Cornelius d'Aubigné and of the French Huguenot leader, Theodore Agrippa d'Aubigné, and also that he, Moore M. Daubin, was born in Bedford County, Virginia, at a time when it was the settlement of the French Huguenot Colony in Virginia.

Of this we can be certain, except for those who trace kinship from Moore M. Daubin, there appear no others by the name of "Daubin" in the United States.

d'Aubigné

Our French Ancestors and

Immigration to America

In France the old Huguenot name of d'Aubigné still exists. All the branches of this family in America claim a common ancestry. They have the same armorial bearings--the same traditions, and the same motto, which they hold in three languages.

In France they have the motto in the Latin, "Fidelis et Gratus" and also in French, "Fidele et Reconnaissant," and in the United States, in English, "Faithful and Grateful."

The name has changed many times since the American branch left France, nearly three hundred years ago. It has been written in many different ways, more frequently as Daubin, Daubeny, Daubney, D'aubinary, Dabnee, and Dabney. Family traditions are that we are descended from that fearless Huguenot leader, Theodore Agrippa d'Aubigné, who flourished from 1552 to 1630.

Dabney French Origin Claim

The independent research of the writer of this Daubin Family Genealogy verifies the similar conclusions of Mrs. Susan Dabney Smedes, in her book, "Memorials of a Southern Planter," as to the immigration to America of the descendants of Theodore Agrippa d'Aubigné. More particularly the French origin is authenticated by William H. Dabney as compiled in his book, published in the year 1888, "The Dabney's of Virginia." These books and many others dealing with the same subject may be found in the Library of Congress and the Library of The Daughters of The American Revolution both in Washington, D. C.

George d'Aubigné, the Virginia Dabneys claim, had a son, William, who adopted the surname, Dabney, and who gave two sons to the Revolutionary Army, one John who commanded the Dabney Legion and George Dabney, who was a captain in that Legion. They were both at the seige of Yorktown and the surrender of Lord Cornwallis. They received the thanks of Congress for services rendered.

The book, "The Dabney's of Virginia," on Page 163 states: "The two Huguenot brothers, John and Cornelius d'Aubigné, came to Virginia between 1715-20 from Wales, whither they had fled from France at the time of the Revocation of the Edict of Nantes, 1685. Cornelius married Sarah Jennings April, 1721. They settled on York River near Piping Tree Ferry. Cornelius d'Aubigné's will is recorded in Hanover Courthouse, Virginia. He left much property, including large tracts of land in Spottsylvania County."

The Revolutionary Service of Brigadier General John Dabney verifies that he commanded Dabney's Legion at Yorktown at the time of the surrender of Cornwallis. (See N. S. D. A. R. #53787, #47423.)

Dabney English Origin Claim

One Charles William Dabney, in an article entitled "The Origin of the Dabney Family of Virginia" published in the Virginia Magazine of History and Biography, April, 1937, asserts a different origin theory for the Virginia Dabneys. He claims Cornelius Dabney belongs to the English Cavalier immigration which took place after the execution of Charles I of England in 1649 and that the English name was Daubeney, who were all Loyalists. Charles William Dabney, in the article, claims there are irreconcilable inconsistencies in the claim of French ancestry and connections with Agrippa d'Aubigné. He appears alone in his doubts. All other writers and historians, including those of the Huguenot Society of Virginia and the Virginia Historical Society definitely trace the Dabney origin to France and to Theodore Agrippa d'Aubigné as an ancestor.

However, we are not herein concerned with which of the two claims is correct for the origin of the Dabney family.

The claim of descent from Theodore Agrippa d'Aubigné as made by the Virginia Dabneys has been accepted by historians.

The name Dabney is very much in evidence in the history of Virginia and families under that name have furnished educators, doctors, lawyers, prominent businessmen and military men in all the wars from the Revolution to the present time. Many volumes are found in the historical societies concerning the exploits of the Virginia Dabneys.

Moore M. Daubin a Descendant
of
Theodore Agrippa d'Aubigné

Moore M. Daubin may not have been the first to use and spell the name as "Daubin." We do know that the Federal Census of 1810 listed in Bedford County, Virginia, five families under the name of Daubings, and that Moore M. Daubin was born in Bedford County, Virginia, in 1824.

Moore M. Daubin, born in 1824, in the Huguenot Colony in Bedford County, Virginia, always told his children that he was a direct descendant from Theodore Agrippa d'Aubigné of France and from Theodore Agrippa's descendants in America.

This has long been accepted as a fact by the present Daubin families in America including all descendants of Moore M. Daubin.

Herein is traced our ancestral tie to Theodore Agrippa d'Aubigné.

Theodore Agrippa d'Aubigné
(1552-1630)

Theodore Agrippa d'Aubigné (1552-1630), popularly called "Agrippa," was a noted French Huguenot leader, soldier, militant poet, historian and statesman. Early in life he embraced the Huguenot cause and was a General for and a counselor to young Henry of Navarre and served him after he became King Henry IV of France and until the King turned to the Catholic faith. Agrippa saw his son, Constant, forsake the Huguenot cause and join that of the King. Agrippa then retired to his castles on the Isle of Doignon near Poitou. When he learned that he had been betrayed by his son, Constant, he sold his two castle fortresses to Duc de Rohan for 100,000 crowns and fled to Switzerland. Here he settled in Geneva, married a wealthy widow and acquired a home known as "Le Crest."

It has been written by his biographers that:

"Here in Geneva he hangs up his battle blade, turns his back on active measures, takes up his sword of fire--in other words, his pen, and surrounded by a group of Huguenots completes his "Histoire Universelle" published in Amsterdam (1616); which was officially burned in France as was also his "Histoire Secrete." He depicted the horrors of religious wars in his "Les Tragiques" (1616).

"But death comes at last, and in that presence he rebels no more, but greets the Visitor as one sent by the God who had sent him life. "The moment has come," he says, "when the hand of peace must be stripped of its gauntlet, and offered to one's most repugnant foe." His wife, Reneé Burlamachi, kneeling beside him, waters him with her faithful tears, and beseeches him to take some nourishment; he replies "Let me depart in peace, sweetheart! I would fain eat the bread of Heaven." He departed on Ascension Day, May 9, 1630.

"As his moral legacy he left the prestige of a splendid intelligence and the authority of counsels inspired by simple puritan tastes, a clean and healthy sense of family relations and a stern judgment of those temptations of the flesh which he himself had not wholly escaped."

The name of Theodore Agrippa d'Aubigné is found in all collections of the great in Europe. The Encyclopedia Britannica and similar works all contain biographical statements.

Agrippa was not the first of his name known at the French Court. A d'Aubigné was at the court of Louis XII, where he commanded a company of Swiss Guards.

Constant d'Aubigné, Baron de Surimeau, son of Theodore Agrippa d'Aubigné, lived from 1585 to 1647. He was in Martinique, Barbados between 1616 and 1620, where he was Governor for a time and visited South Carolina, before returning to France.

Constant was twice married. By his first, to Ann Marchant of Rochelle, they had one son, Theodore, born 1609 (named after his illustrious grandfather), who visited Martinique with his father.

Constant experienced a hectic life and after the death of his first wife (mother of Theodore), he married the second time in 1627, Jeanne Cardillac, by whom he had a daughter, Francoise, born 1635, who was destined to become the celebrated Marchioness De Maintenon. She was, by royal command, in complete charge of the several children sired by King Louis XIV and born to the ladies of the French Court; history records that she was the counsellor of the King on matters of state and of religion; she became the secret spouse of Louis XIV of France after the death of the Queen.

It is indeed ironical that Theodore Agrippa d'Aubigné, the Huguenot leader of France, who was responsible to some degree in persuading one French King, Henry IV, in the year 1598 to enact the Protestant Amnesty known as the "Edict of Nantes," was the grandfather of the celebrated Marchioness De Maintenon, who (her biographers state) succeeded in persuading another King of France, Louis XIV, to finally revoke the Edict of Nantes in 1685. This resulted in the religious persecution of her own people, the Huguenots of France and the flight of many citizens of France to England, Wales and later to America.

As previously stated, we trace descent from Agrippa's grandson, Theodore, son of Constant by his first marriage. Francoise (Marchioness De Maintenon), Theodore's half-sister, had no children.

Theodore had a daughter, Elizabeth, and the son through whom we trace our lineage, Cornelius, born 1640.

This Cornelius (hereafter referred to as Sr.) was in Virginia in 1664 as shown by a land grant of 200 acres in New Kent County, recorded September 27, 1664, another of 640 acres at Tottopotomys Creek on June 7, 1666, and 300 acres in New Kent County, March 6, 1667. He negotiated a treaty with Queen Cockacoerol of the Pomunkey Tribe of Indians, June 29, 1678. Two of his sons, Cornelius, Jr., and John, lived for a time in France, and according to statements of descendants "were driven from France at the time of the Revocation of the Edict of Nantes" in about 1685. These two brothers went to England or Wales where Cornelius, Jr., married and remained until about 1715-1720, when with a son, George, and his brother, John, came to Virginia in 1715-1720.

Cornelius, Sr., had also another son, George, who apparently remained in Virginia, since it is recorded that George received a land grant in Virginia of 293 acres in King and Queen County, April 25, 1701.

The following has been compiled from records in the Genealogical Library, National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, Washington, D. C.; Genealogical Division, United States Library of Congress and from material gleaned from available sources and from records that have been preserved and published by various publishers.

1201 - Jean, sire d'Aubigné, Chevalier. Lived during reign of Philip Augustus, 1180-1223.

1255 - Olivier, sire d'Aubigné, Chevalier. (Died) (R. of Louis IX, son of Louis VIII, 1226-1270.)

1231 - D'Aimery, married 1231, Jeanne de Baupreau. (R. of Louis IX, 1226-1270.)

1273 - Guillaume, married 1273, Alienor de Coeme. (R. of Philip III, 1270-1285.)

1329 - Savary, sire d'Aubigné, Chevalier, Commander at Chinon; married 1329, Honeur de la Have Passavont. (R. of Philip IV, 1328-1350.)

1374 - Pierre, Seigneur de Touche d'Aubigné; married 1374, Jeanne de L'Epine, dame de la Jousseliniere. (R. of Charles V, 1364-1380.)

_____ - Morelet, Squire, Seigneur de la Touche; married _____, Marguerite Gasselin, daughter of William Gasselin, Chevalier. (R. of Charles V, 1364-1380.)

1450 - Thebaut, Seigneur de la Jousseliniere et la Touche d'Aubigné, Squire, Maitre de la maison de la Roi, married 1450, Jeanne de la Parniere, and had six sons. (R. of Charles VII, 1422-1461.)

_____ - Antoine, married Charlotte de Brie. (R. of ?)

_____ - Jean, married Francoice de Viguir. (R. of ?)

_____ - Pierre, Seigneur de Brie, et Viguiier, married Catherine de Chourses. (R. of ?)

1520 - Jean, Seigneur de Brie; born circa 1520; killed in siege of Orleans 1563; married about 1550, Catherine de L'Estang. (R. of Francis I, 1515-1547; Henry II, 1547-1559; Francis II, 1559-1560; Charles IX, 1560-1574.)

1552 - THEODORE AGRIPPA D'AUBIGNÉ, Seigneur de Lander et la Chaillon; born near Pons, Saintong, February 8, 1552; died Geneva, May 9, 1630; married first, 1583, Suzanne Lezay, who died in 1596. Issue: 1. Constant, born 1584-5. 2. (?) Living 1597. 3. (?) Living 1597. 4. Marie, married 1613, Josue de Caumont, sieur d'Adde or Dadou. 5. Louise Arthemise, married 1610, Benjamine le Valois, sieur de Villette. Theodore Agrippa married second wife in Geneva, 1623, Lady Renee Burlamachi, a wealthy widow of Geneva. No children by second marriage.

1585 - Constant, Baron de Surimeau, held other titles; married first October 10, 1608, the widow of Jean Courant, Baron de Chatellaillon (no children), see Ann Marchant of Rochelle. He was born 1585; lived in Martinique, where he held governorship for short time; visited South Carolina and returned to France, where he died at Orange, 1647. By his first marriage he had one son, Theodore (below). He married second 1627, Jeanne Cardillac, by whom he had three children; Charles, Chevalier, a son who was drowned in youth, Francoise, born 1635, Madame de Maintenon.

1609 - Theodore, born at Rochelle, and it is presumed he lived in France most of his youth. His father having had colonial interests in Martinique, Barbadoes Islands, Theodore went there when he was a young man, and thence to England or Wales, perhaps Holland. In Hotten's "List of Emigrants to America" there is recorded as sailing from London on the Ship "Alexander," April, 1635, for the Barbadoes, one "Tho:Dabb," which abbreviation in the opinion of the writer is none other than Theodore D'Abb(igne). His age was given as 25, which tallies exactly with his birth record, as he would not have reached the age of 26 until the following July. (Hotten, p. 73.) It is not known as yet whom he married, but according to reports he had the following children, which reports have not been challenged: 1. Robert, who settled in Boston (Vide Susan Dabney Smedes' "Memorials of a Southern Planter"). 2. Elizabeth (D'Abyn, Dubbin, Dabbin), married 1652, John Savage of Concord (Vide Savage's Genealogical Dictionary). 3. Cornelius, of age 1664.

Cornelius D'Aubigné, born in 1640; of age in 1664, when he had a land grant of 200 acres in New Kent County, Virginia, September 27, 1664, and another of 640 acres on Tottopotomys Creek, dated June 7, 1666, and another of 300 acres in New Kent County "on the south side of York River," dated March 6, 1667-8 (Virginia Land Office). He is mentioned twice in letters from Colonel William Byrd, State Auditor of Virginia, to Mr. North (presumably as he sent his respectful greetings to Mrs. North), in which he incloses in each a statement or bill for L37; 10s. to be handed to "Cor. Dabaney," dated "9br ye 29th, 1686," and to "Corn. Dabbany," dated February 30, 1686. (Vide Virginia History Magazine, Volume 25, p. 136-7-8.) An example of his fine diction has been published by the Virginia History Magazine, Volume 23, p. 402, in which he wrote to Colonel Francis Moryson, then in London, dated "Virginia, June 29, 1678," interpreting the treaty he had made with Cockacoeroe, Queen of the Pamunkey tribe of Indians and signed "with her mark attested by me, Cornelieus d'Aubigné." He made many voyages to and from England and France.

His children were:

Cornelius, Jr., who according to all accounts "was driven from France at the Revocation of the Edict of Nantes," whereas a youth he may have been in school with his brother, John, going thence to England or Wales, where he married and remained until 1715-20, when he came to Virginia and settled permanently in Hanover County, where he died in 1765, an old man.

John, settled in Hanover about the same time as his brother, Cornelius, 1715-20.

George, an older brother, had a land grant of 293 acres in King and Queen County, St. John's Parish, April 25, 1701. He lived and died in King William County. Had other grants. (D. A. R. Reg. No. 221753.) Will dated 1744.

Cornelius d'Aubigné, Jr., and Sarah Jennings, whom he married in Virginia in 1721, had nine children, three sons and six daughters all mentioned in his will dated October 25, 1764, and recorded in the County Court House of Hanover, Virginia, February 17, 1765. He names as beneficiaries his wife, Sarah, and his sons William, John and Cornelius, his daughters, Mary, Elizabeth, Fannie, and Anna, also the husbands of two others, Browne, and Johnson, and appointed his son and John and Henry Terrell his executors. Allowing him to have been ten years old when he fled from Nantes, France, at the Revolution of the Edict of Nantes (1685), this would make him ninety years of age at the time of his death in 1765.

Summary
Immigration to America
Ancestors of
Moore M. Daubin

An ancestor, Constant (son of Agrippa) accompanied by his young son Theodore, first came to Martinique as Governor about 1620 at which time he visited South Carolina. Then came Cornelius, Sr., (son of Theodore and grandson of Constant) who was the first d'Aubigné immigrant to America; in Virginia by 1664. Thereafter, many of our ancestors became identified with the affairs and struggles of the Colonies. Cornelius, Sr., made trips to France and his sons, John and Cornelius, Jr., spent their early childhood in France. Leaving France about 1685 for England. Finally in about 1715-1720 came Cornelius, Jr., to follow the example of his father, Cornelius, Sr., and settle permanently in Virginia on the York River, near Piping Tree Ferry.

William, son of Cornelius, Jr., was born in Virginia in the year 1730 and died at age of 80 in about the year 1810, he had children, order of birth assumed, Griffen, Abner, and William Sylvester.

William, on July 7, 1765, received a land grant of 345 acres in Bedford County, Virginia, at a price of 40 shillings.

William Sylvester, son of William, was born in Virginia in 1772 and died near Greenville, Tennessee, at age of 81 in 1853; he married Martha Kidd, and they had children, Abner, Mary, Martha, William, Caroline and Moore M. who was born January 6, 1824, in Bedford County, Virginia.

- III -

Moore M. Daubin

1824-1898

Moore M. Daubin was born in Bedford County, Virginia, January 6, 1824, where a colony of French Huguenots was then established. He died at the age of 74 on September 12, 1898 at his home near Fort Scott, Bourbon County, Kansas. He was buried beside his wife, Lucinda Caroline, in the family plot in Evergreen Cemetery, Fort Scott, Kansas.

His father was William Sylvester d'Aubigné (Daubin) who was a grandson of Cornelius d'Aubigné, Jr., who immigrated to Virginia in about 1715-1720. William Sylvester may have been the first to use the name Daubin, or it may have been used first by his son, Moore M. Previously herein there have been shown records of five families in Bedford County, Virginia, who as early as 1810 were listed in the Federal Census under the surname of "Daubings."

Our ancestral tie with the early immigrants is summarized as follows: Cornelius d'Aubigné, Jr., was the son of Cornelius d'Aubigné, Sr., the latter was born in France in 1640. Cornelius, Sr., first came to Virginia before 1664 and later returned to France.

Cornelius d'Aubigné, Sr., was a son of Theodore d'Aubigné, the son of Constant d'Aubigné, the son of French Huguenot leader, Theodore Agrippa d'Aubigné.

Therefore, Theodore Agrippa d'Aubigné (born 1552) was the great-great-great-great-great-grandfather of Moore M. Daubin (born 1824).

William Sylvester (father of Moore M.) married Martha Kidd⁽¹⁾, and their children, order of birth not known, were Abner, Mary, Martha, William, Caroline and Moore M.

⁽¹⁾ Some say she was a granddaughter of William Kidd, better known as Captain Kidd, a British Navigator of piratical fame; he was born in Gillnock, Scotland in 1650. Documentary proof of his relationship to the wife of William Sylvester has not been located. (Cont'd next page)

"Abner Daubings" listed in the 1810 Federal Census for Bedford, Virginia, was without doubt either an uncle or brother of Moore M.

Moore M. left Virginia when a lad of about twelve (in 1836) and with his family settled near Greenville, Tennessee, where he attended boys' school.

We know little of the early life of Moore M. except that when a young man he went to the Southwest. Family history states that young Moore M. migrated some time during 1840-1845 to the Southwest because he believed he had mortally wounded another young man in a duel which was fought over a young lady's affections. Years later, he learned that his antagonist did not die from the wound; nevertheless, it appears that he never returned to Virginia or Tennessee.

Emigrations from Europe to America and migrations from the Eastern seaboard to the West have resulted from the desire of many persons to put distance between themselves and certain local events. Oppressive laws and regulations, political persecutions and religious differences were the major causes of the original immigrations to America.

The greatest motivation, however, for the migrations in the United States from the East to the West, was the pioneer spirit of the day with its thirst for adventure and foremost, the ambition to conquer frontiers and establish new homes.

However, for those who claim that the mother of Moore M. was a granddaughter of the celebrated Captain Kidd, they will be pleased to read "The Real Captain Kidd; A Vindication" (By Dalton - 1911).

Measured by the times in which he lived, Captain Kidd was a gentleman and so recognized in England and America. He sailed the seas with the blessing and a special grant of privateering from the King of England who had issued to Captain Kidd, Letters of Marque with orders to prey on French merchant ships and divided the "take" with the crown. He spent considerable time in the pirates haven in the West Indies and is reputed to have buried his treasures along the coast from Florida to Long Island. In 1691 he was given a reward of $750 by the council of the City of New York for protection from the French.

Soon it was being asserted that Captain Kidd was not always careful to distinguish between an English ship and a French ship, and he was classed as a pirate by the British.

Some years later in a spirit of boldness he went to Boston without securing himself by a safe-conduct; here he was arrested by the British, and returned to England where he was tried and hanged for the death on the high seas of one of his seamen.

Crittenden Clay Daubin
(1852-1920)

Moore M. was in the Mexican War with General Scott in 1848 and with him at Vera Cruz, Mexico; in what capacity is not known.

Family records trace the ancestors of his wife back to Germany. William Grounds was born in Germany, married an English girl, Mary Crawford. Whether they immigrated to America before or after marriage is not known. Two of the five children of William Grounds were:

Abner - (date and place of birth unknown)

Lucinda Caroline Caulk Grounds - was born February 5, 1833, Franklin County, Arkansas.

Lucinda Caroline was living in Arkansas with her aunt and uncle, after the death of her parents; one day in the spring of 1851, Lucinda Caroline saw a stranger on a white horse approaching their farm home. She remarked to her aunt, "Here comes my future husband." The man was Moore M. Daubin.

Moore M., at the age of twenty-seven, and Lucinda Caroline Caulk Grounds, eighteen, were married May 8, 1851, in Franklin County, Arkansas.

Here was born their first child; Crittenden Clay, January 31, 1852.

Moore M. in June, 1852, with his wife and baby son moved in a covered wagon drawn by oxen to Bonham, Fannin County, Texas. Here, eight miles north of Bonham, he purchased and managed a cattle ranch on the Red River near a community then known as Davis Store.

Here were born:

Robert Anson, February 8, 1853

Martha Ann, September 22, 1855 (who died in infancy)

The twins:

Mary Crawford	}	September 18, 1857
Martha Kidd

The family left Texas in December, 1859, because of local civil strife and returned to Arkansas, where Moore M. purchased a plantation and boat landing eight miles west of Ozark on the Arkansas River. Here he operated a ferry from his boat landing and was employed as an overseer on large cotton plantations and as a helmsman on river steamers.

Here was born:

Harriet A., September 25, 1860

Moore M. gave freedom to his slaves following President Lincoln's proclamation.

Local resentment was high over the Daubins' sympathies for the preservation of the Union.

Moore M. went to Fort Scott, Kansas, in October, 1863, and joined the Union Army and served as a Captain.

I have often heard my father, Crittenden C., tell of his own boyhood experiences in Arkansas when he assumed the role of the man of the house while Moore M., his father, was North with the Union Army, and of the difficulties his mother and his brothers and sisters experienced before moving to Missouri.

My father, Crittenden C., told me that once, in the fall of 1863 (his age about 12), while they were still living in Arkansas, he was helping his mother, assisted by his brother, Robert Anson (age about 11), and the twin girls, Mary and Martha (age about 6), in the butchering of six hogs, and that after working all day and just as the fresh meat had been hung in the smoke house, a Rebel foraging party rode up into the farm yard and took all of the meat and also the only barrel of salt. Salt was an extremely scarce commodity in that locality during the time of the Civil War.

Tired and hungry though the family was, they butchered another hog, and to secure salt for seasoning and curing the meat, chopped up and boiled the floor boards of the smoke house.

Another occasion, while still in Arkansas, Crittenden C. was riding home on his horse from the grist mill with a sack of corn meal behind his saddle when he was stopped by a mounted Rebel foraging party. A soldier took the corn meal and pulled Crittenden C. from his horse, whereupon Crittenden C. spoke to his horse, slapped him on the flanks and the horse jumped a fence and ran off into the woods. The soldiers were unable to catch the horse and in considerable anger, made Crittenden C. a prisoner, but a Rebel officer ordered his release due to the youthful courage displayed by Crittenden C. in saving his horse.

Moore M. visited his family in Arkansas on leave from the Union Army. He was taken prisoner by local Rebel forces but escaped and returned to Missouri.

Lucinda Caroline decided to move the family to the North near Warrensburg, Missouri, where Moore M. was in camp. In January 1864, in a covered wagon drawn by oxen, she made the trip with her five young children with a sixth soon to arrive. Here she lived on a farm; Moore M. was still with the Union Forces.

Here was born:

Abner David, May 31, 1864.

January, 1865, the family moved to Harrisonville, Missouri, and in July, 1865, Moore M. was home from the Army.

Then Moore M. joined the Cass County Company of Volunteer Missouri Militia and as shown in records of Adjutant General's office, State of Missouri, he was mustered out July 10, 1865, under name of Moore M. Daubins. (Note the suffix "s" in the official records.)

No record of Union Army service of Moore M. has been found in the War Department at Washington. The War Department advises, however, that many volunteer companies during the Civil War fought with State organizations and that in many instances complete muster rolls were not turned over to the Federal Adjutant General's Office.

However, several of his grandchildren report having seen his Union Army uniform and having heard him tell many tales of his Army campaigns.

We also have statements from his children, Crittenden Clay and Harriett, and his daughter-in-law, Lorena (Abner's wife), that he served his country in the Union Army.

The family Bible of Crittenden Clay in an entry in hand writing of his wife, Ella Nettie, states that Moore M. was a Captain in the Union Army. This entry was made at or about the time of death of Moore M. in 1898.

Watson Stewart Register

In 1918 Crittenden C. Daubin stated to Josephine Sperry Hickam, daughter of Mary Daubin Sperry (who made notes at that time), as follows:

"Moore M. Daubin was in the war with Mexico.

With General Scott at Vera Cruz, offered a pension but refused. Afterwards stationed at Fort Leavenworth.

Moore M. Daubin enlisted in the Union Army.

General Heinman (Rebel) took 3,000 bushels of corn from them in 1863. Several times the soldiers passing back and forth required his mother to prepare meals for them.

In January, 1864, the family moved from Arkansas to Warrensburg, Missouri, where father was in camp.

In July, 1865, father came home."

The war over, Moore M. with his family moved from Missouri to Kansas and, as shown by the records of the Lands Division of the Department of Interior, he made written application for and was granted a homestead at Humbolt, Kansas, on November 23, 1865. The records further disclose that he relinquished this land grant on November 13, 1868. Both the application and release are signed "Moore M. Daubin."

In November, 1868, he settled near Godfrey, Kansas, on a quarter section six miles south of Fort Scott, taking title to the 160 acres in name of M. M. Daubin. He first built a log cabin for his family.

Here was born:

Sarah Orlena, September 5, 1879, who was the eighth and last child - 3 boys and 5 girls in 28 years.

Later he built a larger cut-lime stone house and added 90 acres to the farm. The house still stands in 1952.

This farm was very productive, corn being the principal crop. He also purchased and stored corn. He owned a corn crib a half-mile long on a siding of the Saint Louis and San Francisco Railroad (Frisco System) at Clarksville, Kansas.

Coal was discovered on the Moore M. Daubin farm and for many years the Frisco System at Fort Scott was supplied from the Daubin pits where 200 men were employed. The coal lay near the surface and the five to six feet of overburden was removed by the plow and slip method.

Moore M. Daubin was considered in the community as a wealthy man, and after the loss of some money in bank crashes in the financial panics of the eighties and nineties, he kept much gold coin at his farm.

After his death, search was made in wells and in the stone house in an attempt to locate a reputed $50,000 in gold coin. That it ever actually existed has not been authenticated nor is it known whether any of it was ever found.

Shortly after the death of his wife, Lucinda Caroline, on January 14, 1889, he wrote the following letter to his daughter Martha and his son-in-law Howard Ellis:

*There is no Death ! what seems so is transition;
This life of Mortal Breath
Is but a Suburb of the Life Elysian, Whose portal we call Death.*

In Loving Remembrance
+ OF +

Lucinda C. Daubin,

Died. Jan. 14, 1889. Aged 55 Yrs., 11 Mos. 9 Da.

A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled;
A place is vacant in our home,
Which never can be filled.

God in his wisdom has recalled,
The boon His love had given;
And though the body moulders here,
The soul is safe in Heaven.

"Clarksburg, Kansas

My dear Martha and Howard Ellis:

"You must do the best you can under the sad news that you have received concerning your loving mother and that blessed Holy woman and my dear wife.

"I feel greatly bereaved, but the Lord doeth all things well and I am determined by the grace of God to meet my dear wife and your dear mother in Glory.

"We are all enjoying good health at present. We hope you are enjoying the same blessing.

"You will find enclosed a remembrance card. I do hope it is the true desire of all my family to meet our dear one in Heaven, for I am satisfied your dear mother is in Heaven. I believe before she died she was looking in the very gates of Heaven, and I believe also she was visited by angels before her death.

Your loving father,

(s) M. M. Daubin

I received the check for $145 and sent it on for collection at New York."

Custom, in many parts of the United States, decreed the sending of "announcements" of a death to near and far friends of the family; these were printed in gold on heavy black cards. Today this has been replaced by the use of obituary announcements in our daily press.

Lucinda Caroline Daubin, wife of Moore M., spoke German fluently as did Moore M. She was devoutly religious, was an exceptionally kind person, and took pride in her home, particularly the one at Godfrey, Kansas, which was built by Moore M. after they settled there in 1868. This house now nearly a century old was a large two-story native stone house, Lucinda Caroline maintained beautiful gardens surrounded by a rock wall. She was an accomplished needle woman and was known to sew on many evenings well past midnight, putting tucks and trimming in the wide and full flounces then stylish for women. She made knitted gloves of silk with fancy stitches and also cashmere hose in elaborate stitch designs for her grandchildren. She also made for her daughters and grandchildren crib quilts, one particularly called "Ocean Wave" for her daughter, Martha, and for her daughter, Mary, a quilt called "Tree of Life."

Mary, twin sister of Martha, had married Harvey Sperry and moved to Texas, where Martha while on a visit, had met John Howard Ellis.

Martha and John wishing to marry, John wrote to Moore M. Daubin asking permission. Moore M. made reply as follows:

"November 21, 1878

Godfrey, Kansas

"J. H. Ellis, Esq.

Dear Sir:

"Yours of the 17th received. I was quite surprised to hear of your engagement with my daughter. However, it is true she had written to us concerning the matter before, and as you have been well recommended to us, we see no reason to object to your marrying our daughter, Martha, and the matter to be controlled by her own judgment.

"As for your marrying in Texas, we have no objections. Of course, we would rather have the nuptial event happen at our own home, but if Martha is satisfied to marry in Texas, it will be agreeable.

"We will expect you all up next summer.

Yours truly,

(s) M. M. Daubin
(s) L. C. Daubin"

The originals of all these letters are now in the possession of Martha Valentine Ellis Lewis, daughter of Martha Daubin Ellis.

In 1889, Moore M. Daubin went to Oklahoma Territory with his son, Abner and his family to claim a homestead in the land run of that year. He wrote to his son-in-law, J. H. Ellis, making arrangements to meet in Guthrey. His letter is as follows:

Clarksburg, Kansas
April 13, 1889

"J. H. Ellis

My dear son:

I received your letter. Was glad to hear from you about coming down here. If you advise us to come, two of us will come, if not all. If we come we will meet you at Guthrey 22 at noon.

If we come you write for C. C. D. to come. Also you will keep us posted in regard to Orlena, my daughter. She is 18 past. Can she take a homestead. I suppose everybody had to be 21.

Your father,

(s) M. M. Daubin"

("C. C. D." referred to in the letter is his oldest son, Crittenden Clay.)

The name "Major Moore Daubin" is carved on the tombstone on the family plot in Evergreen Cemetery, Fort Scott, Kansas.

Moore M. Daubin was known, at least from 1868, in Kansas as Major Moore Daubin. His signature as shown by Documents is either "M. M. Daubin" or "Moore M. Daubin." In his own family bible, he entered his name as "Moore M. Daubin."

Subsequent to the death of his wife, Lucinda Caroline, he was extremely ill and could give little attention to his farm and business interests and prior to his death he had disposed of the greater part of his personal property.

The official published notice of the Administrator of the Estate of Moore M. Daubin, for the sale of farm personal property, is as follows:

Administrator's Sale

"On Saturday, January 21, 1899, at 10 o'clock a.m., I will sell at public sale to the highest bidder, at what is known as the M. M. Daubin farm, six miles southeast of Fort Scott, Kansas, the following described personal property: One team horses, one team mares, one 2-horse wagon, two 2-horse cultivators, one pair Fairbanks wagon scales, one field harrow, one corn planter, one standard mowing machine, one sulky hay rake, two turning plows, two road scrapers, about 300 bushels of corn, some household and kitchen furniture and other things too numerous to mention.

Terms of sale: all sums under $5.00 cash in hand, all sums for $5.00 or more a credit of nine months will be given, purchaser giving note with approved security, with 8 per cent interest from date.

W. E. Brooks,
Administrator of the estate of M. M.
Daubin"

GENEALOGICAL DATA

DESCENDANTS OF

MOORE M. DAUBIN

The listing of descendants of Moore M. Daubin has been made in a manner to afford a means of recording additional statistical data as may be desired. In this manner this book can be made to serve as an up-to-date record of all descendants, their marriages, births and deaths, similar to the records in a family Bible.

Explanation of listings:

The first child of Moore M. Daubin and his wife, Lucinda Caroline Caulk Grounds, is recorded:

"No. 1 - Crittenden Clay"

Thereafter under a heading:

"Moore M. Daubin - Child No. 1"

is recorded Crittenden Clay Daubin, his marriage to Ella Nettie Bowen and their children in order of birth.

Thereafter each child of Crittenden Clay Daubin is given an individual listing, provided the child is known to have married.

This method of listing continues for each child of Moore M. Daubin and each child, etc., of each child in like manner.

Symbols used:

M. - Married b. - Born d. - Died
(L) - Living at date of this publication - Jan. 1952
